SALARY NEGOTIATION

In the chat:
Share your worst fear about negotiating salary

Facilitated by: Elena Chiru
University Career Services
TOPICS TO DISCUSS!

• Employer expectations
• When should I negotiate?
• What can I ask for?
• What’s important to you?
• Evaluating a job offer
• What do I say? – offer v. raise
• Accepting/Declining offers
• Bias and the Wage Gap
• When you’re the employer...
EMPLOYER EXPECTATIONS

- 73% of employers agreed they are not offended when people negotiate.

- 84% of employers said they always expect job applicants to negotiate salary during the interview stage.

- 87% said they've never rescinded a job offer following negotiations during the interview.

- ZERO employers reported demoting or firing an existing employee for asking for a raise.

IF AN EMPLOYER ASKS YOU FOR A SALARY REQUEST BEFORE EXTENDING AN OFFER YOU SHOULD...

1. Avoid the question
2. Give your ideal figure
3. Give a range
4. 1 and 3
5. None of the above
WHEN TO NEGOTIATE – TIMING MATTERS!

• In the application

• During the interview process (pre-interview questions, screening interview, final interview, etc...)

• As part of formal offer by phone or in writing
PRE-OFFER: AVOID GIVING A NUMBER

• Do NOT initiate a conversation about salary before an offer
• Do NOT share your current salary or salary history

• If they ask, here are some possible responses:
  ❖ I’d like to learn more about the job and see the total benefits package.
  ❖ I’d like to understand the expectations of the role first.
  ❖ If you decide to make me an offer, then we can discuss it.
  ❖ I would prefer to see if this is a fit for both of us before discussing salary.
  ❖ I am not comfortable sharing my finances.
  ❖ I would expect to be paid the same as others currently working in this capacity within your organization.
VARIABLES THAT INFLUENCE THE OFFER

• Type of degree you have
• Supply and demand
• Department budget
• Employer industry
• Geographic location
• Market pay*
• Experience level
• Anticipated commissions
• Pay rate of current staff
• Interview performance
• Negotiating…

WHAT IS NEGOTIABLE?

WHAT ARE MY PRIORITIES?
THINK ABOUT YOUR PRIORITIES

- Professional growth
- Child/family care
- Well-being
- Medical considerations
- Involvement in gig economy
- Commute, travel, hours
- Post-workday engagement(s)
- Stress, workload
- Mentorship
- Company culture/Values
- Telework

- Feeling like I make an impact
- The diversity I bring is valued

Job Offer

"Thank you for your offer and I am certainly interested in the position and company. In the past few days, I have thought about the nature of the job and its responsibilities. I have evaluated my previous work experience and skills that fit this opening. I think that with my skills and experience, a salary of (insert range) is reasonable."
RAISES AND PROMOTIONS

Timing matters
• Performance evaluation cycle
• New contract/client
• Coming off a success
• New information

Considerations
• Employee length of service
• Enhanced education
• Accomplishments
• New responsibilities
• Leadership expectations
• Company culture and policies

Same two questions...
1. What are my priorities?
2. What is negotiable?
"Given these accomplishments, I’d like to discuss a raise in my current salary. I’ve done my research into positions like mine at other companies. But before we discuss a raise, I’d also like to add how I believe I add value to our division/organization moving forward."

"Given my performance this past year and the success of __________, I would like to discuss the possibility of a raise in the near future. When would be the best time to discuss this and what should I bring with to this meeting?"
NEGOTIATIONS TAKE TIME

And depends with whom are you negotiating...

• Recruiter
• Hiring manager
• Supervisor
• Unit leader

Be patient

• The later in the hiring process, the more leverage you have
ACCEPTING / DECLINING OFFERS

Accept Offer
• Commit fully
• Request a written offer letter
• Acceptance letters
  • Show appreciation
  • Outline offer

Decline Offer
• Show appreciation
• Send written notice even if verbally declined
NO ONE LIKES TO NEGOTIATE...

...BUT WOMEN ARE MORE LIKELY TO AVOID IT!

Across different studies:

- 41% of ALL people say they didn't negotiate salary for the job they currently hold

- 7% of women MBA’s said they attempted to negotiate their job offer, whereas 57% of men did

- 60% of women say they’ve never negotiated with an employer over pay

THE GENDER WAGE GAP IS REAL AND INTERSECTS WITH RACE

Notes: Author's calculations are based on analysis of 2018 median annual earnings of full-time, year-round workers broken down by race/ethnicity and gender. The "40-year earnings gap" is how much less a woman would earn than a man based on the 2018 wage gap over a 40-year career. Figures are not adjusted for inflation, and earnings are in 2018 dollars. People who have identified their ethnicity as Hispanic or Latino may be of any race.

PAY IT FORWARD: WHEN YOU’RE NEGOTIATING AS THE EMPLOYER

- Do not ask for a salary history or what someone is currently making
- Consider your unconscious bias in responding to counter offers
- Encourage your organization to make salaries and benefits public
- Encourage your organization or department to conduct an equity audit
- Lead with your best offer

- Encourage others to negotiate and share with them how you negotiated
- Share what options are negotiable during informational interviews
- Add your salary information to Glassdoor.com, etc.
- Keep negotiating!
